RACE / ETHNICITY

Duke now uses the federal IPEDS method of reporting admissions data, in which each student is placed in a single category (such as multi-race). In previous years, students who self-identified with more than one racial or ethnic group were counted in each category, resulting in a total that summed to more than 100%. This change to our public reporting means the class of 2029 percentages are not directly comparable with class profile graphics from previous years.
